City Council denies business owners parking exemptions

By Lisa Parsons

The Lemon Grove City Council recognized firefighter Richard "Danny" Mark and Fire Chief Bill Wright for their outstanding service to the community during last week's city council meeting. Mark was given a plaque for 20 years of service and Wright received a certificate of service for his 10 years of work in Lemon Grove.

In other business, the council reviewed a written request by Scott Kidwell that the business owners and their employees on Main Street (north of Broadway) be allowed to purchase an annual permit for their vehicles to exempt them from the two-hour parking limitation. The council noted that the two-hour parking limit was made at the request of the merchants and that exempting the business owners would "tend to make the public right-of-way a private parking lot."

Jack Shelver, city manager said the request was inappropriate to the street and that there is adequate open parking at the end of the street for business owners and their employees. "If there is more two-hour parking on Main Street than necessary, the council may want to return to unlimited parking. We need more time to see if the two-hour limit is working," he added.

The council also adopted a resolution designating the intersection on Dayton Drive at Barton Drive to be a stop intersection.

Finally, Councilman Brian Cochran volunteered to be Lemon Grove's representative to the Clean Water Program Governance Advisory Group.

Kelly Rae Hero and Jim Johnston, as Barbara and David Kahn, attempt to deal with her mother, Sophie, as played by Eleanor Maund, in the forthcoming Lamplighter production of "Social Security."

Lamplighters to open new comedy, "Social Security" on February 2nd

The Lamplighters Community Theatre of La Mesa presentation of "Social Security," by Andrew Bergman, will open Friday, February 2, at the Ben Polak Fine Arts Center, 8053 University Ave., La Mesa (next to the La Mesa Library).

"Social Security" hits its comic stride when sophisticated New Yorkers David and Barbara Kahn find her mother unceremoniously dumped on their doorstep by Barbara's sister and her husband. Their serene, art world oriented household is turned upside down until a most unexpected romance blooms within the senior set. A true Broadway hit.

The Lamplighters will present "Social Security" at 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays Feb. 2, 3, 9, 10, 16, 17, 23, 24 and March 2 and 3 and on Thursday Feb. 22. Sunday Matinees will be performed at 2 p.m. on Feb 4, 11, 18 and closing March 4.

Directed by Jim Sultan and produced by Carol E. Brown, the cast includes Kelly Rae Hero, Jim Johnston, Eleanor Maund, Samuel Rees, Paul Roger and Inelle Van Eeckhoutte.

Tickets are $7 for adults, $6 for senior citizens, students and active duty military. For further ticket information and reservations, phone the Box Office at 464-4598.

Local youths active in Christian Youth Theater

Horn, Pesicka and Shepard have been quite active in CYT productions over the past year and will once again take the stage to recreate some of the favorite characters in children's theater. Jennifer Austin, plays the title role of Cinderella.

The classic tale of "Cinderella" joins the story of a young girl and her search for her handsome prince with some of the finest music ever written by those Broadway greats, Rodgers and Hammerstein.

"Cinderella" will be presented by CYT on February 1, 2, 9 and 10 at 7 p.m. and February 3, 4, 10 and 11 at 2 p.m. at the Lewis Jr. High School Auditorium, 5170 Greenbrier, in San Diego. Special school day performances will be presented on February 6 and 8 at 9 a.m. and noon.

For ticket information please call Christian Youth Theater at 588-0206.

This important annual event is open to the public, and will be held on Monday, January 15, 1990, 7:30 a.m., at the San Diego Hilton Beach and Tennis Resort, 1775 East Mission Bay Drive, San Diego.

The cost of the breakfast will be $10. Early reservations are encouraged, and can be obtained by calling the NCCJ office at 297-5022.

Channel 39 Co-Anchors Marty Levin and Denise Yamada will "MC" the breakfast program, with the keynote address by Dr. Shirley Weber, Chair of the Department of Afro-American Studies at San Diego State University and Vice-President of the Board of the San Diego Unified School District. The program will feature excerpts from "Driving Miss Daisy," performed by members of the O'Farrell School of Creative and Performing Arts.

Grossmont College offering new course on "hate-groups"

A new course confronting the issues of "hate-groups" will be offered at Grossmont College in the Spring semester of 1990.

Political Science Instructor, Adrienne Leffler created and organized the course to give students an overview of the development of acts of violence and terrorism in our society.

Significant issues and public policies will be explored as they relate to organizations created and perpetuated on principles of racial, ethnic, and religious bigotry.

Leffler's students will analyze and evaluate the historical origins and current activities of groups involved in organized violence. Students will also discuss and debate the sociopolitical consequences of group violence as they affect both the targeted groups, and American society.

Classes at Grossmont begin the week of January 29. This course is offered on Wednesdays from 7-9:50 p.m., and is listed under Social Science 299 (entitled "organized Violence in American Society") in the college's class schedule.

and Wednesdays from 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. at the Rogers Center, 510 East Naples in Chula Vista; Tuesday evenings starting January 23 from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. in the Mary Lou Clack pool, 125 West California Avenue in Vista. Classes will continue for six weeks.

Commentary

by Max Goodwin

One of the nation's most respected newsmagazines has claimed that the federal government has become a bloated inefficient and helpless giant.

That sounds about right.

"The problem is that the country is being governed badly," is reported. "It was and should again be a great engine of social and economic improvement."

The newsworthy obviously is not happy with congress for repealing the catastrophic Health Care Act of 1988 with its surtax on senior citizens for the expansion of Medicare.

The magazine had encouraged the reform of the nation's increasingly expensive and inefficient health care system but congress buckled under special interest lobbying by wealthier senior citizens. Congress then repealed the catastrophic issue which was to help the needy.

Congress, it seems, has been lifting itself into the wealthy bracket as many citizens were becoming paupers. It engineered easing investments of savings and loans so they could use it to add weight to their portfolios. Fat and greedy S & L owners immediately hopped onto junk stocks which became nearly worthless and caused many S & Ls to collapse.

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

It really all started the latter part of September 1989. One of the most violent hurricanes of the century hit the Caribbean Islands and our Southeast Coast causing death and devastation beyond comprehension. Even before the destruction of "Hurricane Hugo" could be assessed, history repeated itself with another San Francisco Earthquake of gigantic magnitude. It shook buildings and bridges to beyond repair, leaving hordes of people homeless. Thank God for so few deaths from such a huge catastrophe. In addition to several other less notorious disasters, October will be the month to remember.

We also had a near personal catastrophe this "Black October". Our son, Dan, has lived in the hills just east of Sacramento for the past few years and has constantly urged us to move up to the "Good Life". Our daughter is also moving up there after the first of the year to attend college.

We have visited our "Favorite Son" during the hottest and the coldest seasons to get the feel of the area. We even compiled a chart showing the Pros and Cons of making that drastic move especially for this "Mentally Retired" couple. The Cons always won out and moving from the "World's Most Wonderful Weather" seemed impossible.

"Then Came Trolley." During the first part of October there were 12 break-ins on our short street. One neighbor's car was stolen, another was vandalized. Our across the street neighbor had a break-in at noon while they were grocery shopping.

The Sheriff always responded

The public, including the needy, will help pay for this as the government raises billions of dollars to cover the insurance losses.

The federal government has become more suspect as their agency's activities began to raise questions.

How many arms of government are involved in the Noriega-drug affair?

What sanctions did the State Department offer the Chinese not to kill the students they imprisoned following the Beijing uprising?

Why has the HUD matter been downplayed when there was evidence that investors were quietly sapping off much of the money leaving the homeless out in the cold.

The federal government through congress has legitimate functions: defending the nation, protecting individual rights and dealing with social problems such as drugs.

But greed is everywhere. I believe dishonesty starts at the top. Congress is proving that greed and dishonesty have blemished that political body. Congress should embark on a program of total integrity and demand that all elements of government join in the operation.

promptly and left us with these thoughts, "We believe that the culprits were illegal aliens that came out on the trolley. The majority of them took VCR's concealed inside of a stolen suitcase."

These incidents scared us and were the "Pros that Broke Our Chart's Back". Now we headed for Sacramento determined to make our move. We searched a full week for our "Impossible Dream" in an area where real estate prices have recently skyrocketed. This is due in part to the scare from the recent "Frisco Quake" which is causing the survivors to "Head For the Hills". We limped back home with our "Tail Pipe Between Our Rear Wheels" determined to cope with our local situation.

I had an ingenious plan worked out for our security: Dig a moat around the house, order a pair of crocodiles and a school of piranha for the moat, install gun turrets on the roof, and trade my van in for a surplus Sherman Tank. With our house equipped thusly we could ward off all "Unwanted Trolley Travelers".

The new bright red trolley is a great asset to all of us along its line. The "unwanted" can be made to believe that we the home owner victims are not "Easy Marks". Together with stepped up protection from the Trolley Security, the Sheriff's Office, the Police, and a well organized "Neighborhood Watch Program" we can lick-em.

At least for the time being the San Diego area with "The World's most Wonderful Weather" is stuck with us.

Spanos Rewards Dedication with Dismissal

Alex G. Spanos evoked the "Golden Rule" last week and fired veteran PR man Rick Smith in a pique of petulance.

Spanos blames Smith for the continuing "bad press" directed toward the Chargers by radio, tv, and newspaper reporters and columnists in the years of his ownership.

Spanos' version of the "Golden Rule" reads, "Them with the gold, rules," and his ego dictates someone must be sacrificed to save face for the corporate image.

Owners of NFL teams may employ anybody they like in any position they want, of course, but when dedicated, hard working and very capable career aides are callously dumped, you have to wonder what yardstick the owner is using to make judgements.

Could it be vanity that governs Spanos' needs to blame others for his own failures? Is it malice that prompts Spanos' ingratitude toward one who has served him so honestly and loyally during his entire venture in NFL ownership ranks?

Can it be that Spanos misreads reality and expects the sacrifice of Rick Smith to be considered a peace offering of some sort by San Diego media members in hopes of wiping the slate clean and starting fresh with the new front office crew?

For the record, in his 14 years in the NFL, Rick Smith has become known far and wide as a hard working, hard headed, dedicated, loyal, company man who has yet to leak news "off the record," speak ill of his team, his coaching staff, his owners (current and past) or of anyone else associated with the game.

He earned the same kind of grades during his two year tour as PR man for the Golden State

Warriors of the NBA.

Smith tends to hide his sensitivity behind a gruff exterior and an imaginative sense of humor. His depth of understanding is rare in the commercial oriented business of public relations.

The Chargers played a night game in the not too distant past and the visiting team had to fly out of NAS North Island because of noise limitations in effect at Lindbergh Field.

Knowing some of the visiting writers would be working late and might miss the team bus, Smith arranged for volunteers with military backgrounds to drive tardy writers directly to the team's plane.

In all of its 22 years, not a single visiting writer has been left unattended at San Diego Stadium.

Spanos tends to lay the blame of a hostile local press on Smith. A look at the facts disproves that contention.

In the past year, the Chargers had a general manager who lied and misdirected covering media as a matter of routine. They have a coach who closed practice sessions and worked out the team in unmarked jerseys. And they had a quarterback who thumbed his nose (among other things) at local writers.

The Charger's recent "bad press" was richly deserved and only heroic efforts by Smith and his staff kept the feud from boiling over into a "shooting from the lip" war.

But despite his peace making efforts and his constant sales pitch on behalf of the club, Smith got the boot.

He deserved better. Spanos' gold may make him the ruler, but it sure as hell doesn't make him the better man.

Henry V

Two weeks ago I unwisely chose to release my "Top Ten Films of 1989" prior to seeing "Henry V." It was unwise because the film is not only the best picture of the year, but it ranks near the top films of the entire decade. "Henry V" is bold and exciting, a brilliant film which must not be missed.

Kenneth Branagh is mesmerizing as Henry and his accomplishment appears all the more impressive when it is considered that he also served as director and adapted the screenplay from the original by William Shakespeare.

In his writing, Branagh breathed originality into familiar material by introducing the narrative chorus as an anachronism—a modern character, though speaking Shakespearean English, serves as a guide through the violence and majesty of Henry's reign.

As an actor, Branagh takes hold of his audience, never once losing his intensity or passion. His speeches to his battleworn army surely caused goosebumps on the arms of a great many in the audience and, watching Branagh, one cannot help but think that Henry himself couldn't have done better.

The cinematography and art design of "Henry V" are an achievement in themselves and the final battle between French and English armies is one of the greatest ever recorded on screen. Even those who aren't great fans of Shakespeare should see the film just for the battles... that's how magnificent they are.

The Hollywood Foreign Press Association has already passed over "Henry V" and Branagh in their Golden Globe nominations. If the Oscars follow suit I will personally lead an assault on the Academy.

Young musicians compete to perform with San Diego Symphony at Symphony Hall

A youngster will be waiting in the wings of Symphony Hall's stage March 28, ready to play the first of five solo performances with musicians of the San Diego Symphony as winner of the Young Artist Concerto Competition (YACC).

The once-a-year competition will be held February 10 and 11 for the many talented young musicians of San Diego born after April 1, 1971. In competition, the young musician will be performing a five to seven minute movement of a concerto from the standard repertoire (such as Haydn or Mozart). The audition process requires a recommendation of a music teacher in order to appear on Symphony Hall's stage before a panel of judges that include Symphony musicians and other members of the San Diego music community. The winner will perform as a soloist with the San Diego Symphony during the last set of Young People's Concerts March 28 and 29, and the Mervyn's Family Series Concert April 1.

"The Symphony is proud to encourage the many young talented instrumentalists in our area to become involved," said Francis Fitting, YACC Coordinator.

There is even more ahead for the winner than the excitement of a "professional" engagement with seasoned musicians. He or she will also appear at several Symphony-related concerts, including entertainment luncheons hosted by the orchestra's Auxiliary Council, and the winner will share prize money donated by the Quarter Note Foundation and the San Diego Symphony Association to the first, second and third place winners.

Deadline for entries for the February 10 and 11 competition is Thursday, January 25. For further information, contact Francis

Mission Sunday invitation

Missions Sunday will be observed at Casa de Oro Baptist Church, 10195 Madrid Way, Spring Valley on Sunday, January 14 at 10:30 am and 6:00 pm. The Missionary Carl Martinson Family of Guatemala, who are currently on furlough, will be present to present the program in the form of a report and video of their ministry. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Tastes great and it's less filling

Over 30 of San Diego's favorite restaurants have accepted the American Heart Association challenge to mix fantastic flavor with good nutrition at "A Taste From the Heart," Sunday, January 21 from noon to 5 p.m. at the Omni Hotel.

The afternoon of culinary indulgence will allow hungry San Diegans to be surrounded by food from some of the county's finest chefs -- all of it good to eat and good for you. Unlimited tastes will be shared of everything from Top O' the Cove's exclusive duck salad to Athens Market's lentil soup. In between there will be Vietnamese, Italian, Thai, Egyptian, Mexican and Chinese tastes along with some great American classics.

In addition to the great food and fine wines, entertainment will include Thomas Maley on the piano, the flamenco guitar of Diego Corriente and the amusing antics of Magic Mike and Joe Mystic.

Coming to test the challenge of good taste will be Don Bauder and Michael Grant, along with Stephen Clark of Channel 10.

"The volunteers have worked very hard to create an afternoon that will be relaxed, with wonderful eating," said Martha Grant, chairman. Ticket prices include all tastes and three beverages. Tickets are $35 in advance and $50 at the door.

Because of the generous underwriting of the Union Bank, every cent of the ticket price will go directly to American Heart Association's research and education programs.

Restaurants participating in "A Taste From the Heart" include: El Crab Catcher, Souplantation, Top O' the Cove, Pastry International, Reidy O'Neils, Busalacchi's, Belmont's at the Beach, Jetz Restaurant, California Yogurt Company, Sammy's California Woodfired Pizza, Frogg Lane Bar & Grill, Honey Hill Farms Yogurt, Cilantro's, Le Bambou, Baci's, The Abigail Pantry, My Cahn, Hamburguesa!, Five-Star Thai Cuisine, Catering Doorstep Diets, Su Casa, Sheraton Harbor Island, Tio Leo's, Cairo Cafe, The Golden Door, The Red Onion, Omni Hotel, Frederick's Bistro, Athens Market, Cucina Italiana, McCormick & Schmick's, Il Fornaio. Other vendors include: Hart Winery, Mount Palomar Winery, Callaway Vineyard and Winery, North Park Coffee Company, Treetop Juice and Evian Waters of France.

The Committee includes: Martha Grant, Chairman, David Kabaker, Mona Carter, Glenn Schweighardt, Leonard Adams, Joe & Lisa Busalacchi, Tracy Lewis, Mary Naimish, Joan Jacobs, Jenni Prisk, Lisa Green, Jim Hammond, Sydnie Ross, Carol Crivelli, Jan Amato, Marla Blom, Beverly Petrus.

Tickets for "A Taste From the Heart" may be obtained by calling Linda Bona at the American Heart Association, 291-7454.

B of A promotes Prescott

Bank of America recently announced the promotion of Lisa J. Prescott to executive vice president.

Prescott, who since February of 1988 has served as senior vice president and head of the San Diego/Orange County/Eastern California Region, oversees consumer banking operations for 162 branches and some 2,500 employees in an area that encompasses San Diego, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Imperial Counties. The region is based in San Diego.

In making the announcement, Executive Vice President and Retail Banking head Tom Peterson said: "Lisa has been a key player in our retail operation and as such, she has contributed greatly to the bank's success these past few years.

"Her appointment illustrates the bank's level of commitment to this very important region of California," Peterson added.

Prescott joined the bank's management development program in 1978 and was named financial services officer later that year at the City of Commerce Branch.

In 1981, she assumed the position of corporate banking officer in the City of Commerce Corporate Banking Group and the following year was promoted to area credit administrator in the Ontario Plaza Area Management Group.

Prescott served as a customer marketing, sales and service officer and product integrator in the former Central and Eastern Los Angeles County Region from 1983 to 1986. She was then named area manager of the City of Industry Area Management Group, overseeing the operations of 17 branches.

In 1987, the bank announced the creation of regional commercial banking offices and Prescott was promoted to regional vice president and head of the City of Industry Office, where she was responsible for all commercial banking activities from the cities of El Monte in the west to Claremont in the east.

Prior to joining Bank of America, she was employed for seven years with the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company where she rose to the position of assistant manager.

A native of New York, Prescott holds a bachelor of arts degree in English from Connecticut College and a master of business administration degree in finance from the Wharton School of Business at the University of Pennsylvania.

Fashion Showcase '90 set

The fashion industry for years has been focused on the clothes we wear, the shoes and hats and all the wonderful accessories that most of the time are very optional. Today, though, something that is worn by many of us and has never been associated with fashion is getting the press it deserves. Your eyeglasses!

Today we are seeing men and women buy multiple pairs of eyewear to compliment their lifestyles and their wardrobes. After all, no one wears the same sweater or shoes everyday so why should they wear the same eyeglasses. Not only are prescription glasses being wardrobe to fit lifestyles of many executives but in some cases eyewear is being used as a prop; to make a statement at a meeting or simply as an added accessory with no prescription.

In keeping with the fashion industry, the Rancho San Diego Vision Care Center located in the Rancho San Diego Medical Plaza on Austin is hosting a Fashion Showcase '90 on January 17th from 5:30 to 7:30 pm. Personal shoppers and cosmetic consultants from Nordstrom will be providing their latest fashion tips and makeup artistry. Frame industry representative will be available sporting the latest in eyewear. If you are interested in attending, please RSVP at 670-0300.

"Big League" sports injuries

by Josh Oderlin

Picture this scene. Dad carries son Bobby though the front door. Mother asks worriedly, "What happened?"

"Just hurt is back a little... he'll be okay for tomorrow's game."

Sound familiar? If not, then you're probably wondering where the connection is made. The fact is that "Bobby" probably will be okay... if he get the proper rest and treatment for his injury. If pressured into playing too soon, the result could be a lifetime of recurring pain from his injury.

Many of the doctors today lay the blame of such potential for injuries on improper coaching and an increase in two-career families; both of which heighten the chance for injuries. Trying to make up for missed time all in one day with children is a common mistake made by parents today that is more likely to hurt the child than help him.

Too much strain on developing muscles and bones could end up reversing the progress of the child as an athlete. A high percentage of parents today choose the route of organized sports teams for their kids, which is fine, but according to Dr. Lyle Micheli (director of sports medicine at Boston Children's Hospital), parents, more often than not, are unaware that preparations must be made for the rigor of their child's sport. Parents should provide protective equipment to lower the risk of certain injuries and they should also compliment the athletes activities with a strict rest and dietary regimen.

Twenty-four hours of rest between strenuous activities and a healthy, balanced diet that includes complex carbohydrates can insure that the athlete's body is ready for the strain of the sport. Another measure that can be taken is learning to recognize symptoms of sport's injuries. Any sports injury that can't be helped by rest should get the attention of a doctor according to Micheli. Such measures aren't too much to ask and, after all, they could save a child a lot of pain.
